1. Small or medium-sized farm

Given the lack of a universal, standardized classification system, GUARDIANS has chosen to adopt a multifactorial, case-by-case analysis approach to determine whether a farm qualifies as a small or medium-sized agricultural holding. As a general guideline, farms participating in the GUARDIANS project should not exceed 200 hectares in size or should not have a standard annual output greater than €500,000. However, eligibility will also depend on the specific context and parameters of each country, with exceptions being considered where relevant.
